MIAS Definition

Following the model of the Institute for Advanced Studies launched at Princeton, and then further developed in Berlin, Uppsala, Fribourg, Zurich and Paris, MIAS targets individual researchers, exempt from any academic or administrative duties during their stay, in order to develop an innovative project in an environment conducive to scientific debate between disciplines and civilisations.

MIAS promotes interdisciplinarity and supports research excellence, from a transversal perspective, in the fields of the Humanities and Social and Legal Sciences, extending from the Iberian world to the global dimension.

Eligibility Requirements

The call is open according to the following criteria:

- it is exclusively for a post-doctoral researcher who gained their doctorate between 4 and 10 years ago. The doctorate validation date is the date of the doctorate thesis defence. The doctorate must have been obtained between 31/12/2015 and 01/01/2008;
- it is aimed at researchers of any nationality who have spent less than 12 months in Spain during the 3 years prior to the call for applications submission deadline;
- the research project must adhere to the MIAS scientific guidelines and relate exclusively to the Humanities and Social Sciences;
- priority will be given to candidates who have developed their research in conjunction with partners in Madrid at MIAS;
- this call for tender is primarily aimed at researchers working in the following disciplinary areas: Political Sciences, Social Sciences, Current History.

Selection Process

- The quality of the applicant's scientific portfolio.
- The quality and potential of the research project.
- The project's adherence to the MIAS research policies.

Application Portfolio:

The portfolio should be written either in French and Spanish or English and Spanish.

Candidates submit their application via the on-line electronic application system (www.call.mias-ias.eu). The portfolio includes:

- a completed application form;
- a curriculum vitae, including a list of main publications (5 pages maximum);
- a scanned and certified copy of the Doctorate or PhD qualification;
- a scanned copy of a valid form of identification (identity card or passport);
- an overview of the research project (6 pages maximum), accompanied by a selective bibliography;
- optional: one or two letters of recommendation, attesting to the quality of the portfolio and the research project potential.

Residency Arrangements

- Accommodation: MIAS will provide accommodation for the candidate at the Casa de Velázquez facilities for a period of 6 consecutive months (January-July 2020), subject to availability and in accordance with the Casa de Velázquez rules of procedure (see RI).
- Travel: As part of MIAS, the Institut français en Espagne provide a return trip between Madrid and the candidate's place of residence, up to a maximum of 250€. Mobility aid, up to a maximum of 300€, may be awarded to candidates from Africa or Latin America who make a request.
- Monthly allowance: the Institut français en Espagne provides 1000 € in financial support to the beneficiary to cover short-stay travel and research costs.

- Research methods: candidates may participate in the Institute's scientific life and activities (conferences, seminars, round tables, etc.); suitable research areas are also provided. MIAS will help candidates to integrate into the local scientific environment during their stay.

Residents' Obligations

The researcher attached to MIAS accepts the resident's charter that requires several commitments:

- residence at the Institute to engage in one's work throughout the duration of the stay;
- participation in seminars and residents' lunches;
- contribution to the dissemination of information relating to MIAS research activities;
- the obligation to credit the support received from MIAS in all activities or publications that result from the residency;
- the submission of a report on the activities carried out during the stay, and before the stay comes to an end;
- A speech at the Institut français en Espagne (in the form of a seminar, a round table or mediation).

The project carried out during the stay must correspond to the project presented in this call for applications.
